

Men's Basketball Takes On Wright State This Saturday Night

Flames invade Nutter Center to face Raiders at 6 p.m. Central.

Feb. 15, 2008

Box Score in PDF Format

Fairborn, Ohio- The UIC men's basketball will seek to avenge the only blemish on its home record when the Flames take on Wright State this Saturday night at 6 p.m. Central inside the Ervin J. Nutter Center.

Adam Levinson will call the action live through Stretch Internet Radio on uicflames.com.

UIC (14-11, 8-6 Horizon League) will look to start a new winning streak against the Raiders (18-6, 10-4 Horizon League), who have a nine-game string of consecutive victories heading into Saturday's game. The Flames had a four-game winning streak ended at Detroit on Thursday night.

Wright State is the only team to beat UIC on the Flames' home floor after the Raiders came away with a 76-75 victory at the Pavilion on Jan. 17. UIC is 11-1 at home this year.

The Flames have clamped down on defense of late, allowing just 63.2 points per game in their last five contests. UIC had been allowing 68.1 ppg prior to the last five games.

For more information on UIC men's basketball and the Flames' game at Wright State, click on the updated game notes above.

Jermaine Dailey